The Winter Storm

Characters:

- Father
- Johnny (son)

Setting: This play takes place on the family farm in the olden days

Son: (hear wind howling) "Listen to the wind dad, it looks horrible out there."

Father: "let me give this soup another stir here Johnny and I'll come have a look."
(hear soup being stirred and then foot steps)

Son: "See what I mean!"

Father: "Yeah, it is getting bad out there. I didn't think this storm was going to hit so fast. I better go out and get the animals in the barn."

Son: "Don't forget about Rover."

Father: "I'll remember the dog if you remember to stir the soup on the stove. Your mother won't be happy if we burn it. (hear a rustling of clothes, boots, door opening, wind noise)

Son: "I'll remember dad, just send Rover to the house." (hear door close)

Son: "I better give this soup a quick stir (hear stirring of soup) and maybe a quick taste too. (hear slurp sound; drops spoon) Oh that's a little too hot."

(hear dog scratching at the door)

Son: "Oh there's old Rover wanting in" (hear footsteps and door opening)

~~Forest~~ Forest fires

natural fires are good for the forest. Did you know the trees contain the same kind of compound as gasoline it's true. When wood is heated to about ~~100~~ 150 degrees Celsius, its cells start to break down and release volatile gases. You know these gases as smoke, but they're actually full of hydrocarbons - the same kind of molecules that you find!

Narrator 2: Tortoise kept plodding along, but a lot slower than Hare.

Hare: I am so far ahead of Tortoise. He will never catch up. I think I will take a rest.

Narrator 3: Hare sat down by a tree and fell asleep.

Narrator 1: Tortoise continued plodding along and passed the tree where Hare was sleeping.

Narrator 2: Hare woke up and found out that Tortoise passed him.

Tortoise: I can't believe I won!

Narrator 3: Hare and Tortoise continued to be great friends.
